

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. The current "documentary" about George W. Bush violates fair election practices. If, in fact, their news organization operated as a balanced entity, equal free airtime would be granted to the opposition. Unfortunately, the response of Sinclair has mirrored the double-speak of the current federal administration claiming that they would be willing to give Senator Kerry a 5 minute rebuttal time to a 40 minute free political ad. Hardly fair and hardly democratic.

I believe that this news organization has violated not only FCC regulations but laws determining the nature of political ads.
